Young Presidents To Hear Dulles In 'Off Record' Talk

By HAROLD J. LIDIN

The keynote address of Central Intelligence Agency director Allen Dulles before the Young Presidents Organization will be delivered this morning "off the record"—presumably as a precaution against adding verbal fuel to the flaming Caribbean political situation.

Efforts to keep the Dulles family private was reported to have failed Friday at the White House in Washington, after administration figures scanned a draft of the C.I.A. chief's speech. Topic of Dulles' talk will be the "Communist challenge," with special focus on Communist subversive activities in Latin America.

Timing of the Dulles speech coincides with a bloody outbreak of sabotage and rebellion in Cuba which Premier Castro blames largely on the Central Intelligence Agency. Moreover, the C.I.A. has been accused of masterminding a build-up of anti-Castro troops and military aircraft in Central America.

Lynn Bollinger, dean of the Institute of Latin American Affairs of the Young Presidents' Association, said he had not known until after Dulles decided to give the address that he personally would be present. Dulles' speech is expected to be a circumstantial, "off the record" affair, he said. "It may be treated by the American press as a propaganda piece."

The speech material itself is not likely to contain anything of a confidential nature, Bollinger ventured.

Dulles was not asked to keynote the Y.P.O. convention because of his special knowledge of subversive activities, Bollinger insisted. The C.I.A. chief was invited for his status as a "senior statesman," and for his long familiarity with Latin America.

Main object of the seminars is to give the visitors an insight into the forces working for and against the U.S. in Latin America, and to assess the strengths and weaknesses of the U.S. posture.
